SOCIAL and PERSONAL

One of the loveliest functions of the winter was the buffet luncheon given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Thomas Albert Smyth at her recently completed residence, 224 Monument Avenue. The affair was in the nature of a housewarming, and Mrs. Smyth invited about 100 of her friends to be present. A rustic basket of daffodils and pansies was arranged on the luncheon table in the dining-room, and bowls of the same pretty spring blossoms and smaller baskets of yellow flowers decorated the house everywhere.

Mrs. Smyth received with Mrs. Brooks Parham, of North Carolina, and her sister, Miss Theresa Nurney, of Suffolk, both of whom are her guests this week. And Mrs. J. Cloyd Kent and Mrs. James Dunlop were at the punch bowl. Mrs. Thomas Cary Johnson and Mrs. A. M. Gover assisted the hostess in doing the honors of the affair, and Mrs. Frank Duke poured coffee.

Miss Elizabeth Clemmer, of Middlebrook, arrived in Richmond on Tuesday to be the guest of her aunt, Mrs. John D. Clothier, at 200 West Grace Street. Miss Clemmer has recently been visiting in Lynchburg, where she was much entertained.

A. Mebane, of this place, and Arthur Scott, of Mebane, N. C., the ceremony being performed by the Rev. H. G. Lane. The wedding party consisted of the bride, who wore a tailored suit of blue tulle, with hat and gloves to match, her flowers being a bride's rose and a spray of white lilies, entered with her brother, Frank Mebane, who was given away by the maid of honor, Miss Myrtle Mebane, the bride's sister. She was given in white crepe de chine, and carried a shower bouquet of sweetpeas. Perry W. Gwaltney, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. The ushers were Gilbert Seward, Grover Bryant, Cornelius Edwards, Joel White.

The church was decorated in palms, ferns and candles, and Mrs. J. Waverly Thomas read "I Love You Truly" before the ceremony. Professor Clinton Ely, of Norfolk, presided at the organ, playing Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" when the bride and groom entered and the "Lohengrin" March as a recessional. Rev. T. S. Dunaway performed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Gwaltney left at once for Richmond, where they will make their home.

OPINION IS DIVIDED.
Movement in Danville for and Against Berryman Green's Bill.

Danville, Va., January 22.—Opinion is sharply divided as to the advisability of the passage of Berryman Green's bill in the legislature providing for the election of superintendent of the water, gas and electric departments by the people, instead of by the Council, as at present.

Some contend that it would be a costly piece of legislation should the amendment to the charter carry, while others take the position that no office is so important as to prevent the people voting their choice as to who shall hold it. Following quickly on the steps of both branches of the Council and commercial and tobacco associations' action in repudiating the proposed measure, petitions asking that the bill pass have been circulated by friends of Mr. Green, and to-night 1,000 citizens had signed their names.

In his address Chancellor Kirkland said: "I found it necessary to go to Germany to acquire a degree, for owing my graduation from college, but the graduates of the Southern schools now have the advantage of being able to attend such institutions as the University of Wisconsin in their own country."

The decorations were from Virginia were Mrs. I. F. Lewis, Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Blum, Stewart A. Anderson, George A. Carr, Charles S. Rowe, H. W. Truesdale, Overton S. Woodward.

ARCHDUCHESS DOES NOT TAKE NUN'S VOWS

Isabella of Austria Has No Intention of Spending Balance of Life in Convent.

BY LA MARQUE DE FOSTENOVY.
ARCHDUCHESS ISABELLA of Austria, daughter of the multi-millionaire Archduke Frederick and niece of the Queen Mother of Spain, has not taken the vows of a nun, nor has she made any renunciation of her imperial titles, and of her prerogatives as a princess of the reigning house of Hapsburg, which she recovered after the annulment, last January, of her marriage to Prince George of Bavaria, contracted twelve months previously. Nor has she any intention of spending the remainder of her life in a convent, or even in the role of a Sister of Mercy, all reports to the contrary notwithstanding.

In the case of Byng was erroneous. Byng was executed, but Graves survived for many years to render such valuable services to his country that he was rewarded with a peerage and an annuity of $5,000 a year.

The second peer was lord of the bed-chamber to the prince regent, and afterwards comptroller to the Royal Duke of Cumberland, and brought his life to a close in 1820. The third national suicide in 1820, the third married the daughter of Napoleon's famous Marshal Berthier, Prince Duke of Wagram.

The present Lord Graves, like his father before him, is not merely a Unionist, but what is more, a Tory, and, like him, a vigorous opponent of home rule. He will have no opportunity, however, of giving legislative expression to his sentiments at Westminster until another vacancy occurs in the list of twenty-eight representative peers of Ireland in the House of Lords, who are always elected for life.

Charles de Pomarols, who is the most interesting of the candidates for one of the now three vacant seats of the French Academy, is the only one of the aspirants to membership of the Forty Immortals who belongs to the old aristocracy, being the head of a family of the ancient nobility of Provence. He is seventy years of age, and a poet of rare merit, who, in many exquisite verses, has vindicated the dignity and beliefs of that peasant proprietor who in the estimation of all thoughtful people is the most genuinely French, and constitutes the most valuable element of the French nation.
